WILL CURB USE OF FIREARMS BY DRY AGENTS

ANDREWS MAY ORDER
MEN TO SHOOT ONLY FOR SELF DEFENSE

Department Probes Recent Killing of Innocent
Persons

WASHINGTON, August 4.—Aroused by reports of the killing of several persons recently during prohibition raids, steps will be taken by the federal government to curb the indiscriminate use of firearms by dry agents, it was learned at the treasury today.

General L. C. Andrews, dry czar, was expected to issue orders to all agents that firearms must be employed only in self defense or in extreme cases.

Every effort will be taken by the new prohibition organization to protect the lives of innocent persons, it was said. Over zealous agents who in the past have fired on suspects that later proved to be law abiding citizens will be curbed.

Rigorous precautions will be taken to avoid accidental killings, especially in the cities and along much traveled highways. Agents will be permitted to fire on automobiles only provided they are certain the occupants are bootleggers and should there be no danger of injuring innocent persons.

The border patrol and other agencies operating in little populated areas, however, will be permitted more latitude in law enforcement. The campaign against smugglers requires the use of firearms, according to officials.

The association against the prohibition amendment today announced that a campaign to require bonding of prohibition agents and to compel those operating on public highways to wear easily identified uniforms will be carried to congress in December.

Association officials, asserting that more than twenty innocent persons have been killed as the result of dry raids in the last two years, said that the families of the victims had no financial recourse. It was pointed out that government cannot be made defendant in a damage suit and that few of the agents have property.

The treasury is now investigating the killing by dry agents of a four year old boy in Kentucky, that of a resident of Havre de Grace, Md., and similar affairs in North Carolina and West Virginia.

The announcement of the treasury that all field forces will be dismissed October 5 and only those having good records retained has led to unusual activity of dry agents. Considerable property has been destroyed and a number of persons killed and injured.

General Andrews, it was said, will strive for a "common sense" enforcement of the prohibition law. He hopes to eliminate some of the criticism of enforcement by a general reorganization, not only of the system and personnel, but by establishing more humane methods.

Liberal and careless use of firearms has been a long standing criticism of the prohibition system, having been climaxed in the shooting in Washington sometime ago of Senator Green, Republican of Vermont. He was permanently disabled.

SUBWAY SALOON IS FOUND IN MANHOLE

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Aug. 4.—Manholes in New Straitsville near here came in for an official inspection today following the finding of what had been a prosperous underground saloon, entrance to which was gained through a manhole just off the main street.

Customers, according to police, evidently were lowered in an elevator arrangement which had been made from a steel barrel.

There were stills, found in one corner of the subterranean chamber, evidence of the length of time the place had been in operation.

Fourteen barrels of mash and 225 pounds of sugar were seized. The owners were not located.

U. S. ATTORNEY HAS RESIGNED POSITION

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 4.—Fred Grabin, for two years assistant United States district attorney for the Northern Ohio district, resigned here today and John B. Caman, formerly of Marion, O., was appointed to succeed him.

Grabin has formed a partnership with Gerard J. Pilliod, former assistant county prosecutor at Toledo, and later assistant district attorney here. Caman leaves the firm of Caman and Hyatt.

Both attorneys are graduates of Ohio Northern University. While in office, Grabin handled the majority of the government's big liquor cases and conspiracy trials.

TAX REDUCTION PROGRAM TAKES FORM; WILL CUT $350,000,000

FARMERS OF ENGLAND DEMAND SUBSIDY TO WORRY GOVERNMENT

Baldwin Administration
Further Harassed By the Press

LONDON, August 4—Farmers of England today added to the cares of the Baldwin administration with a demand for a subsidy such as one through which the premier found a solution of the threatened coal strike.

This complicating factor was an additional encouragement to the opposition press, which continued its freely expressed criticism, in anticipation of the debate over the subsidy in the house of commons.

There seemed little doubt that Premier Baldwin would be able to carry his promised measure through parliament, but it also seemed certain that his administration has been weakened by the forced settlement of the coal strike. It will continue to be a thorn in the side of the administration, it was believed, as long as the taxpayers realize that their money is being paid out for the subsidy.

Opposition newspapers today featured former Premier MacDonald's speech charging that "Baldwin surrendered to the extremists."

Debate on the measure in commons tomorrow was expected to be extremely bitter.

The Evening Star today declared that Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, intends to increase the tax on beer by two cents a pint in order today to find funds for the subsidy to be paid to the coal operators as the price for the armistice between them and the coal miners.

The reaction to this suggestion by the public has been one of immediate hostility. It obviously would be as unsatisfactory to the lower middle class as an increase in Britain's already burdensome income tax would be to the upper middle class, who have in many respects been the hardest hit of all in the post-war economic adjustment.

REFORM OLD OFFENDERS

"Then there is the problem of the recidivist, a criminal who lapses back to crime.

"The great question is finding alternatives to sending cases such as these to prison. There is the French plan of conditional conviction—the hangover of a sentence for five years. In many cases it is futile, hopeless, and ridiculous to send men to prison, and does more harm than good.

"The world is searching for reasonable alternatives, and we will go on. That is one of the main objects of the congress—the treatment of the hopeless recidivist when all other means have failed.

"The question of capital punishment was ruled out twenty years ago. It only arouses passion and bitterness and useless talking.

"If it is raised at this congress I shall certainly rule it out of order as was done in Washington in 1910. After all, it is not a prison question; it is a political question."

WAR OF PACIFIC IN 1931 PROPHECY OF NOVELIST; BOOK GETS INTEREST

United States Will Win Costly Conflict With
Japs Says Story

LONDON, Aug. 4—"The United States fleet annihilated in a battle outside Manila bay—Japanese cruisers sunk by American aeroplanes launching torpedoes—Japanese submarines and aerial attacks upon the California coast—American aeroplanes bombing Tokio—the United States the eventual victor in a Pacific war, but with victory that is "scarcely less disastrous to victors than to vanquished."

Such are the thrilling glimpses of the future as set forth by Hector Bywater, naval architect and writer in "the great Pacific war," an imaginary description of war between the United States and Japan but nevertheless a book which is founded on existing facts and a study of possible naval strategies in the Pacific.

Bywater's book is regarded as almost a corollary to Well's novel of prediction upon the world war, at any rate, it seems probable the Bywater book will be eagerly studied by the strategians of both United States and Japanese navies.

Bywater states frankly in his book that "the Pacific horizon is fairly free from clouds," now but he proceeds to describe his hypothetical war, assuming that the next war will be launched in 1931, lasting two years, with the United States suffering heavy losses at the opening but eventually winning a costly victory.

PUBLICITY CLAUSE IN INCOME TAX LAW DOOMED TO REPEAL

Nuisance Taxes Will Get Knife; Income Also Favored

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The $350,000,000 tax reduction program which the Republicans will sponsor early in the new congress and endeavor to put through in record time began to emerge from the mists of conference and discussion today and to assume definite form.

As now envisioned by administration leaders the tax program will be based upon these six principal recommendations:

1—Repeal of the publicity clause affecting income taxes.

2—Elimination of the socalled nuisance taxes, relics of the war, and including the tax on automobiles and accessories, theatre tickets, club dues, etc.

3—Reduction of the maximum surtax on big incomes from its present figure of 40 percent to 20 percent.

4—Reduction of the normal tax on incomes up to $5,000 from the present rate of two percent to one percent with corresponding reductions progressively upward.

5—Elimination of the federal inheritance and gift taxes on the ground that this field of taxation properly belongs to the states and not to the federal government.

6—Retention of the present corporation tax at 12 1/2 percent.

There are many other features of the Republican program yet to be worked out, but on these six there is general agreement, and they may be said to constitute the framework of the plan.

It is likely that the Democrats will go along with the administration on at least four of the points contained in this outline. The two proposals at which they will probably balk according to Democratic spokesmen in Washington, are those for repeal of the publicity clause and elimination of the federal inheritance and gift taxes.

The Republicans themselves are not unified on these points.

Chairman William R. Green of the house ways and means committee, who will have a major part in framing the final draft of the bill, is staunchly opposed to eliminating the inheritance and gift taxes. The Democrats are split on it, the conservatives favoring it and the progressives opposing it.

Virtually the same condition prevails on the proposal to repeal the publicity clause.

Party lines are certain to be badly split, but the preponderant opinion among members of congress is that the publicity clause will be retained.

NEW MENTAL MALADY BASIS OF STRUGGLE FOR SCOTT FREEDOM

State Ridicules Claim Of Defense That Slayer
Is Insane

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Cell shock, the new mental malady invented by attorneys for Russell Scott in the hope they will save the slayer of Joseph Maurer from the gallows, was to be made the basis of a struggle of lay witnesses and aliens in the sanity hearings before Judge Joseph B. David today.

As now envisioned by administration leaders the tax program will be based upon these six principal recommendations:

1—Repeal of the publicity clause affecting income taxes.

2—Elimination of the socalled nuisance taxes, relics of the war, and including the tax on automobiles and accessories, theatre tickets, club dues, etc.

3—Reduction of the maximum surtax on big incomes from its present figure of 40 percent to 20 percent.

4—Reduction of the normal tax on incomes up to $5,000 from the present rate of two percent to one percent with corresponding reductions progressively upward.

5—Elimination of the federal inheritance and gift taxes on the ground that this field of taxation properly belongs to the states and not to the federal government.

6—Retention of the present corporation tax at 12 1/2 percent.

This new form of insanity is ridiculed by Assistant States Attorney Rittenhouse, who is conducting the case for the state.

"In previous efforts to save Scott, nothing was said of his insanity," Rittenhouse told the jury in his opening statement which followed that of William Scott Stewart, representing Scott.

"To meet their claim of insanity fairly, we have sought to have Scott examined by our doctors and he told them that on advice of his lawyers he would not submit to an examination. They were unable to make a complete one.

"But we can answer them by calling as witnesses here every man in the jail who has had anything to do with this man and we intend to prove to you jurors that he is not insane."

An indication of what Scott's lawyers will seek to prove was furnished by Stewart in his jury talk. He spoke of delusions of persecution which is a symptom of paranoia, say experts.

Alienists who examined Scott at the request of his attorney will tell of these delusions and of other symptoms when they are called to the stand, Stewart said.

"It will be no foolish talk about butterflies and lions," he confided to the jury. Booze and drugs and the regime of prison life have had their part in debilitating Scott's mind, the jury was told.

He admitted he had a representative in Atlantic City who was keeping him informed. He indicated it was unavoidable to make further comment.

He declined to say where he would attend today's meeting with John P. White, former president of the union.

MILFORD, PA., AUG. 4—Beyond stating that he was in touch with the situation, Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who has been mentioned as a possible mediator in the event of a deadlock in negotiations between operators and miners at Atlantic City, today had nothing to say at this time.

He admitted he had a representative in Atlantic City who was keeping him informed. He indicated it was unavoidable to make further comment.

He declined to say where he would act as mediator if requested as on a previous occasion when he was called in at the eleventh hour.

canceled during the year, the total consideration of the canceled mortgages being $1,037,947. Seventy-five town acres were released from mortgage, representing a consideration of $41,166. Six hundred and eleven lots were released their consideration having been $567,198.

The total for released mortgages was 963 lots, 21,617 acres and a consideration of $1,647,007.

DISPLAY UNION JACK ALONG WITH STRIPES

When in Canada do as the Canadians do.

Xenia motorists are asked by officials of the Ohio State Automobile Association to take a tip from L. C. Aubrey, recording secretary, Native Sons of British America, and if motorizing to the Province of British Columbia, carrying an American flag they should display a British flag of the same size as well.

The Native Sons are of the opinion it is a matter of international courtesy that all United States autos should display a British flag, providing they carry their own.

It is assumed by officials of the Ohio Auto Association, that the Canadians will reciprocate by doing likewise when they come over here.

Some sidewalks are almost impassable because of the low hanging branches, he says.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS MUSIC RECITAL

A large and attentive audience listened with interest to a splendid program given by students from the piano class of Miss Marguerite Williams at the First Presbyterian Church Monday evening. The program opened with a duet played by Miss Emma LeMar and Miss Charlotte Johannes, after which the Misses Gwendolyn Jane McElfresh, Alberta Murray, Mary Elinor Collins, Margaret Tindall, Louise Bradley and Lois McCoy played in a delightful manner, their numbers whose composers include Mozart, Tchaikovsky, Hoffman and Kroeger. The solos of Miss Thelma Tindall and Miss Imogene Dean, who played a Beethoven number, were well interpreted, as was also the duet they rendered.

Special mention should be made of the part Miss Iva Dell Yeager, ten years old, took in the program. Her numbers were: Gavotte, by Bach; Le Coucou, by Daquin; Waltz, by Chopin, and Prolis Ecossaises by Chopin and a number by Schubert. All were played from memory and given with the ease and finish of a much older student. Little Miss Yeager who has received all her training under Miss Williams, not only reflected much credit upon herself, but on her teacher as well.

Miss Charlotte Johannes was heard with interest in a Chopin group including a Mazurka and several Preludes. Miss Emma LeMar played with much feeling, Romance by Tchaikovsky and also numbers from Edmund Grieg and Louise Victor Sarr. The program closed with a duet by Miss LeMar and Miss Johannes.

FLOYD COLLINS, SAND CAVE VICTIM, WAS NEVER AFRAID FATHER SAYS IN INTERVIEW

"Anywhere he could put his head, he would take his body."

This was the philosophy of Floyd Collins, victim of Sand Cave, Ky., according to his father, Colonel Lee Collins, who arrived in Xenia Tuesday morning to open the booth he will conduct at the Greene County Fair.

Floyd was fearless, found no dangers in the treacherous underground passageways and did not hesitate at exploring any subterranean opening he found, in spite of frequent narrow escapes, according to his father.

Col. Collins is conducting a booth at the Fair in order to thank the people of Greene County for the sympathy extended him during the agonizing days of his son's imprisonment in Sand Cave, where he eventually died from starvation and the rigors of his condition.

His booth will be open to the public free and there he will explain the mysteries of the famous Sand Cave disaster, while Professor Charles T. Buell will show pictures of the event that made the greatest human interest story of recent years. Because the booth is being conducted here at great expense, a free will offering will be taken up in a box provided for that purpose to defray expenses, which include booth space rental at the Fair.

The Greene County Fair will be the only county fair Col. Collins will attend this season. Because of an early start, he picked out the local Fair and the Fair at Carthage, near Cincinnati next week, to occupy him until the state fair circuits open. He will be at the Missouri State Fair the week following and later will attend the fairs of Indiana, Illinois and Ohio.

Floyd Collins discovered and explored the famous Crystal Cave on the 300 acre farm of his father but the cave that trapped him was located five miles away in the next county. There he was pursuing the dangerous occupation of exploring a cave in sand strata, much more serious than following a lime stone formation.

He wormed and squeezed his way through narrow apertures until the dislodged boulder caught his foot and pinned him. So tight was the opening through which he had crawled that it was almost impossible for him to move his body, his left hand was pinned under him and with his free hand, he was unable to reach the stone or help himself.

GREENE COUNTY FAIR OPENS TUESDAY WITH FAIR WEATHER ON TAP

The eighth-sixth annual Greene County Fair officially opened Tuesday under the best possible conditions, with fair weather prevailing and indications pointing to the most successful Fair in the history of the society.

Entries in the various departments have exceeded previous years, is announced, and officials are making arrangements to care for the largest attendance of years.

The various departments were putting on the finishing touches in preparation for the grand opening Wednesday and throngs of impatient Fairgoers wandered over the grounds Tuesday to watch the final preparations being made.

The atmosphere was permeated with the Fair appeal Tuesday and anticipation of three days of pleasure seeing was voiced on all sides.

The Red Cross exhibit tent is being erected on the ground, and two dozen hand-painted posters, depicting activities of this branch of service have been obtained from Washington. Nurses will be in charge every day and free nurse service will always be available. Cots have been placed in the tent for the sick.

Demonstrations will be given each day between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. on the care of the sick by Miss Helen Evers or another nurse and the proper method to be used in caring for the infant will also be shown.

In conjunction with the Red Cross demonstrations, the local first aid team of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company will give two demonstrations Thursday afternoon. A talk will follow.

Often Times Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country; is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Sohn's Drug Store and Sayre and Hemphill sell lots of it.—Adv.

MODISH MITZI—Underthings Should Be Few But We'll Chosen By JAY V. JAY

Aunt Sophia is by way of being scandalized. Polly is showing her bobbed stockings and Mitzi, well the way she is sitting one can be sure that she doesn't wear a great deal of lingerie. A few garments well chosen is all that any one should wear these torrid days, says Mitzi.

And if one has to wear corsets then this is the best corset to wear says Mitzi to Aunt Sophia. You can wear rolled stockings too because there's a sort of garter band arrangement that keeps the corset in place. No shirt. Just briefest of brassieres is necessary.

Turn about is fair play. Polly and Mitzi are censoring Aunt Sophia's underwear. Too much to it—says Polly practically. I don't see how your clothes fit over all that bunchiness—lectures Mitzi. First Aunt Sophia knows, they'll be rolling her stockings! Mitzi will get her if she doesn't look out.

NEW DEMOCRATIC INSTITUTION.

WITH the advent of bobbed hair for women and girls a new line of business has been established and developed in this country. So general is the bobbed hair custom, the business developed to care for it has called for the investment of large sums of money, development is still under way, the limit has not been reached, the need not fully met. Note the beauty shops on every hand in cities that are gathering places for the women with bobbed locks. They are elegantly equipped, up to the minute in every detail, ready for the most fastidious customer and the most fastidious service. Before bobbed hair became the custom there were about 5000 of these places in the nation. Today they number well above 21,000 and others are being added to the list rapidly. The beauty parlor has become one of our most democratic institutions, with fortunes invested, many workers employed; one must make appointment or take the chance of waiting an hour or more for attention. The old time barber shop wait for men has been transferred to the beauty shop for women, with the waiting period lengthened materially.

Bobbed hair requires much attention, far more than full length hair and expert attention is most in demand. The barber trim must be given frequently, many women require it each week. The curls, waves, shampoos and other aids need the attention of the most experienced, hence the demand is for the best. That means trips, much attention and much expense if one maintains the best appearance, and that is what women want. The custom has developed lucrative employment for women of good taste and deft fingers, and a real expert, with skill once demonstrated, may have a salary of from $75 to $100 per week. One need not travel far to find that salary being paid. Women have their favorite attendants. Most men prefer a certain barber, be it for hair cut or shave. The same is true of women. There is financial reward as the lure for women in beauty shops to have satisfied customers. The barber shops have share largely in the bobbed hair business. There are many women who like the man's hair cut in a barber shop and the barber smiles at the new field of business opened and handed to him. He is an ardent supporter of the bobbed hair custom.

FOREST FIRES.

NEARLY 100,000 forest fires in the United States during 1924 swept 29,000,000 acres of public and private lands, according to figures just made public by the forest service. The resultant damage from these fires totaled $38,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 over the previous year, and $6,000,000 higher than the average for the last nine years. The estimate, moreover, makes no allowance for damage to area of Pennsylvania. It is also equal to more than two-thirds the area of all of New England.

It is as if the entire state of Ohio had been burned over, and some additional 5000 square miles of Pennsylvania or Indiana were thrown in for good measure. The area of Ohio is estimated at 41,040 square miles; that of the areas suffering from forest fires last year at 45,312. The latter figure, by the way, is just a shade greater than the area of Pennsylvania. It is also equal to more than two-thirds the area of all of New England.

When all the effort centered on fire prevention and fire fighting in recent years is considered, such a record cannot be other than disheartening. The total number of forest fires in 1924 is estimated at 92,000, an increase of 24,000 over 1923 and twice the average for the previous nine years. The showing is not a gratifying one. Incendiarism, it is startling to note, is blamed for 21,000 such fires. The burning of brush was responsible for 16,000 others, while the ever-present smoker is charged with starting 13,000 more. Other leading causes of forest fires were camp fires, railroads, lumbering operations and lightning.

The greatest hope of combating forest fires, in the opinion of William B. Greeley, chief of the forest service, lies in public opinion. "No thoughtful citizen," he declares, "can read the 1924 figures without concluding that the fight against forest fires is his personal fight." He is right; such a showing in the face of all that has been done falls little short of a national calamity. There can be no rest until this enemy is conquered once for all.

RASCALS
Was ever parent so with mischief blessed.
Or so affronted to his own delight?
Was ever man so happily distressed?
So pleasantly defrauded of his right?

Beset by rascals, fearless, noisy, bold,
I'd rather have them pillage than my gold.

Rascals, I've learned, grim visaged are and coarse,
Who live in stern defiance of the law
And dare to take men's property by force.

If that be so, I'll swear earth never saw
A lovelier pair of rascals than are they

Who do me wrong and laugh my wrath away.

I who am robbed of sleep and needed rest,
Should prosecute the thieves who take my bed.

But I can find no hatred in my breast
And hug the rascals tenderly instead.

I smile upon the villains and I gloat
To feel their fingers pressing at my throat.

Here is a paradox: that one should be
So very fond of those who do him wrong.

And in their deeds of mischief always see

The happiness that he has wished for long.

And stranger, too, peace would this home forsake

If God should stop the noise those rascals make.

Reader Friend—"How are Holland window shades cleansed? Also can they be painted?"

Answer—To clean Holland shades: Lay them one at a time on a table, flat, and rub lightly with powdered bath brick applied with pad of old rags. Or rub with a cheesecloth bag filled with heated cornmeal. Finish by dusting with a soft brush. Shades may be painted with ordinary flat paint and an ordinary small paint brush.

"My trouble began with a breaking out of pimples and blisters on my face. The irritation caused me to scratch and sore eruptions formed. At times I had to stay home from school on account of the breaking out, and I could not sleep at night on account of the itching and burning."

"I tried different remedies without relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." —Maurice Bushey, 6425 Russell St., Detroit, Mich.

Miss J.—"I am fifteen and it will soon be my birtday. Can you suggest an unusual party for me to give?"

Answer—I recently heard of a group of young people who gave a "Pirate Party," to which both girls and boys came dressed as pirates—the men with broad hats and trousers tucked in flaring hip boots (made from cambric-covered buckram,) and of course with sashes, and knotted colored handkerchiefs around their necks and toy pistols, the girls more like gypsies, with colored handkerchiefs tied about their heads, their hair down, flashy necklaces (several different kinds on each girl) and brilliant dresses and aprons. Dancing was the chief form of entertainment, but as novelty features some of the girls told fortunes with cards, two of the boys sang appropriate songs, and all entered a contest to determine which one could tell the best pirate story in five minutes (original or not). The refreshments were the ordinary summer ones: ice cream, sandwiches, cake, fruit punch and candies. You might employ the same idea?

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER

A nation still mourns. Sorrowing pilgrimages from every state wind their way to the tomb of their late Chief at Marion to pay humble tribute. On a Sunday recently there were hundreds who came.

Cars from everywhere. From Canada. From Pennsylvania. From Iowa. From Maine. Costly limousines. Rattling Fords. Tourists traveling hundreds of miles out of their way to pass through Marion.

The cemetery is beautiful. The road to the tomb leads by the magnificent monument erected to the Civil War lads, and then, skirted on either side by heaps of earth where rests Marion's arly settlers, winds hither and thither and yon to a great mound of earth fronted with walls of stone. In the stone walls two iron gates block the entrance.

Inside there are wreaths from everywhere. Just inside the gates a small floral piece with the words "Our President" in red, white and blue.

All classes come. The frock coated gentlemen who breathe affluence from silly hats to spats, with fashionable ladies clinging to their arms. Workers in their Sunday clothes Foreign faces. A delegation of country folks from the rugged hills of Perry County.

Going and coming, a steady stream of visitors. Arm in arm, single file, and everyday. The visitors drive quickly away and their places are taken by others who come. From the cemetery they search out the Harding residences. Thoughtful and silent, they are not the same chattering visitors who came.

A blue sky with heavy clouds drifting across it. Intermittent sunlight with a glint of steel in it. Flowers that will soon wither. Leaves that will sift down and blanket the grassy heaps of earth. One is reminded of a Nation's Autumn.

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER 113

Lilah was so occupied with arrangements for the dinner that she did not question Michael about developments at the office where he came home.

"You must wear a dinner coat, you know, dear."

"Aw, Lonnie won't wear one. Besides, I have a headache."

"Please, dear. You've been rather lax about that sort of thing lately."

"All right. I want to rest first."

She smiled at his boyishness.

"No, please do now. I want you to be downstairs in case I'm dressing when they come."

"They're not coming together, are they?"

She shook her head as she resumed her work. Sally was still ailing and needed her aid, and Lilah had put in a busy afternoon.

Alonzo Capper was the first to arrive.

"What's up?" He was frowning as he shook hands with his host.

"This is Lilah's doing, Lonnie. She thinks she's helping you out.... Helen is going to be here tonight."

Lilah lost his reserve momentarily. "I suspected as much. Lilah didn't tell her I was going to be here, did she?"

Michael shook his head.

The visitor was visibly disturbed. "I'm afraid she'll be fearfully angry."

"I was afraid so, too. I'll have Lilah call her up and call it off. She probably hasn't left yet." He started into the hall. "Lilah! Lilah!"

"Yes, dear." The answer came floating down the stairs.

"Ait! No, let's let her come. I'm sure she wants to see me. I mean she'll be angry because of the way this has been arranged. I think she should have been told."

"What is it, dear?" Again came Lilah's voice.

"Never mind."

GRID CANDIDATES IN FIELD PRACTICE

Captain-elect Robert Chitty is issuing a call for twenty-five candidates for the 1925 Central High School grid team to report at a meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the high school for outdoor practice. The turnout at past meetings has been below standard and Coach Vic Kolb wishes to get a line on as many prospects as possible before the season opens.

Candidates are asked to bring their football shoes in order to engage in lengthy kicking practice. It is also thought possible that Cox Memorial Athletic Field may be available Wednesday night for practice.

The local league will be able to present a vast array of talent against the visitors. With four teams topic from Xenia should be able to line up a classy outfit, as the local teams are composed of the pick of the county star performers of the diamond.

The Pennsy nine will come to Xenia as a flattering record. The team is the pennant winner in the Cincinnati Industrial League and is said to have coped the bunting without the loss of a game. The Pennsy bunch has not been defeated this season.

The local team is composed of Oscar Cunningham, Joe Anderson, Ulysses Jones, Leroy Haines, John "Eddie" Crawford and Lawrence Raymond.

Cunningham will try for points in the running broad jump and sprints. Joe Anderson, former Wilberforce University cage star, has entered the 220-yard and 100-yard dash events. Jones former East High School miler, will be a member of the local team that will participate in the mile relay.

Leroy Haines, basketball star, is counted on for points in the pole vault and broad jump. "Speed" Crawford will attempt to live up to his nick-name in the fifty-yard and 100-yard dashes, while Lawrence Raymond, former East High School track man, will heave the shot put.

EAST SIDE CINDER PATH STARS READY FOR FIELD EVENTS

Cinder men of the East Side Athletic Club, Xenia, will participate in the annual track and field meet of the Springfield Athletic Club to be held at Springfield Wednesday. The locals enter the meet every year and will enter all seven events in the 1925 re-newal of the classic.

Another reason for Rastus' pride is that he is a Walhampton and the Walhampton pack is the greatest pack of England.

The Bassett preserved many of the bloodhound characteristics as may be seen in "Starridge Rastus." The head points, together with a long sinuous body, give him a distinct advantage in penetrating thick brush and undergrowth. As they have been originally bred for hunting both in Europe and America, the Bassett is all sound, and breeders of the hounds have held steadily to the purpose of conserving the hunting instincts and sporting properties of their stock.

A baseball game has been arranged for Wednesday afternoon, August 12 at Washington Park diamond between an all star nine picked from the class of the local Industrial League and the champion Pennsylvania Railroad nine, representing the Cincinnati division of the system, it is announced.

DE HART HUBBARD TO PERFORM IN TRACK MEET ON WEDNESDAY

DeHart Hubbard, colored Olympic star and world champion broad jumper, will be one of the special attractions at the track meet in combination with the Home Coming celebration at the Clark County Fair Grounds Wednesday, August 5, it is announced by Dean Mohr, director of athletics at Wilberforce University.

Hubbard, completing a four year college term at the University of Michigan, is versatile in his cinder records. Recently, in the Western Conference track meet held at Chicago, he jumped twenty-five feet ten and seven-eighths inches to a new world's record, beating LeGendre's Olympic effort by four inches. At the same meet, Hubbard equalled the world's record for the 100-yard dash in nine and three-fifths seconds.

This will be Hubbard's first appearance in his home state since his record breaking leap, and several thousand people are expected to be present to watch the champion give exhibitions of his skill.

Xenia has another aristocrat to take up its abode with its canine "400."

His name is "Starridge Rastus" and he is a genuine five months old Bassett hound. He is of old French and English ancestry and challenges any one with a better ancestry than he. He now belongs to Carl E. Smith, North Galloway Street. The dog comes from the kennels of Erastus T. Teft of New York, prominent broker, who is the leading importer and breeder of the old aristocratic breed of slow hunting hound. The puppy is sired by "Champion Header" of Walhampton ancestry, and both field and bench winners in America. His mother is the great "Reveuse," of fine French lineage. He is a good representative of his breed, having heavy bones, short legs somewhat benched, long body and tail, and long silky ears reaching almost below his body when he walks. The Bassets are tri-colored and this particular individual has a white blanket with reddish brown ears and head markings, and reddish brown and black markings on his body.

These little hounds of bloodhound ancestry are rapidly becoming introduced into America in considerable numbers and are rapidly becoming popular as slow and careful hunters with exceedingly keen noses for accurate trailing. In America they are used mainly for rabbits and other small game, although some have been trained for coon. In England and other parts of Europe they are used as trackers of the hare and as slow trailers of the deer, bringing them around to the shooting platforms on which stand the nobility, who do the shooting.

Attorney George H. Smith, formerly of Xenia, has imported a pair of Bassets direct from the kennels of Sir Godfrey Heseltine, England and the dogs are temporarily kept at the Smith Kennels on North Galloway. The Smith brothers acquired some years ago a few Bassets of Russian ancestry and have found them satisfactory hunters as well as dogs of sharp intelligence and great pets. The Russian hounds have been crossed with the English-French and there are two litters of little puppies of this cross now on hands at the Smith kennels.

"Starridge Rastus" has reason enough for being proud. Way back centuries ago the Bassett was developed in France but it wasn't until sixty years ago that the Bassett first attracted the attention of British sportsmen visiting France. They were found in great abundance in Artois, and probably the best Bassett today is a Bassett d'Artois. The hound is of ancient origin and is believed by some authorities to be the direct descendant of the hounds which the Abbots of St. Hubert had to contribute annually to the King's kennels. By some it is thought that the hounds descended direct from the old French bloodhound. It is true that Sir Everett Millais again introduced a cross with the bloodhound several years ago and much of the Bassett blood of today traces to that outcross.

The Bassett preserved many of the bloodhound characteristics as may be seen in "Starridge Rastus." The head points, together with a long sinuous body, give him a distinct advantage in penetrating thick brush and undergrowth. As they have been originally bred for hunting both in Europe and America, the Bassett is all sound, and breeders of the hounds have held steadily to the purpose of conserving the hunting instincts and sporting properties of their stock.
